RELIGION IN SCHOOL

A Discussion of the Subject by Cardinal Gibbons and Others.

SUCH INSTRUCTION IS NECESSARY.

According to the Views Advanced by the Catholic Dignitary.

SOME RATHER DIFFERENT OPINIONS. One Writer Asserts That No Doctrine of Any Kind

Should be Tolerated, Cardinal Gibbons and a number of other eminent individuals have written papers as to the expediency of religious instruction in the public schools. The opinions are widely various, and are defended with vigor and WASHINGTON, July 11 .- Public Opinion, the eclectic journal of Washington, will to-morrow (Friday) publish papers from the pens of Cardinal Gibbons, Rev. Dr. Thomas Hill, ex-President of Harvard University; Rev. Dr. Minot J. Savage, of Boston, and Prof. W. T. Harris, editor of the Journal of Speculative Philosophy, on the Public Schools Expedient? If so, What Should be Its Character and Limitations?" Cardinal Gibbons says that "an education that improves the mind and memory to the neglect of moral and religious training is at best but an imperfect and defective system. It is most desirable that our youth should be made acquainted with the history of our country, its origin and principles of its government, and with the eminent men who have served it by their statesmanship

THE GREATER NEED.

"But it is not enough for children to have a secular education; they must receive a religious training. Religious knowl-edge is as far above human science as the soul is above the body, as heaven is above earth, as eternity is above time. By secular education we improve the mind; by religious training we direct the heart. The religious and secular education of our children cannot be divorced from each other without inflicting a fatal wound upon the soul; they must go hand in hand, otherwise their education is shallow and fragmentary a curse instead of a blessing. Piety," says the Cardinal, "is not to be put on for State occasions, but is to be exhibited in our conduct at all times. Our youth must put in practice every day the commandment of God as well as the rules of arithmetic. Then, he asks, how can they familiarize themselves with these sacred duties if they are not daily inculcated? The catechetical instructions given once a week in our Sunday schools are insufficient to supply the religious wants of our children. It is important that they should breathe every day a healthy RELIGIOUS ATMOSPHERE in schools in which not only is the mind in schools in which not only is the mind enlightened, but the seeds of Christian faith, piety and sound morality are nour-ished and invigorated. The combination of religious and secular education is easily ac-complished in denominational schools. To what extent religion may be brought in the public schools without infringing the rights and wounding the conscience of some of the pupils is a grave problem beset with difficulties, and very hard to be solved, inasmuch as those schools are usually attended by children belonging to the various Christian denominations, by Hebrews also, and even by those who profess no religion whatever." The Rev. Dr. Hill says that public schools with compulsory attendance are an essential adjunct of a republican government, and that the republic is bound to superintend with care the education of the children. And whatever may be the theoretical opinion of religion and morals, it is practically true that children can be kept pure, truthful and honorable in no way so effectually as by cultivating their natural reverent sense of religious sanctions. POLITICAL NECESSITY. He concludes, therefore, that religious instruction is more than expedient; it is de-manded as a political necessity. But it must not be given by text books, lectures or recitations. It must be given incidentally, first by the selection of teachers of good character and good sense, then by careful selection of wholesome reading, and finally by a daily brief religious exercise, at which a passage from the Bible shall be read, a prayer recited and, perhaps, a hymn sung. But great care should be taken that there be nothing in the service to which any rea-sonable parent could object. The State, he says, does not undertake to define Christianity or to decide upon the true interpre-

"The Government exists for the public good," he says, "and it is the people alone who have the power to decide what is for their good. The State must for its own sake make good morals and good manners the first and highest aim in public education." PRIVATE SCHOOLS.

With regard to private schools, Dr. Hill believes it the duty of the State to inspect them, and require that the education given therein shall be such as to prepare the pupils for the duties of citizenship. The State should not admit that education in the parochial schools of a denomination is a political equivalent for a public education Least of all is a Catholic parochial school capable of fulfilling the political ends of a good education, since in them is not only that partial and distorted view of history, but limitation of the right of private judg-ment, which must partly unfit the pupil for considering questions of public policy with unbiased mind. Catholic education is favorable to the development of diplomatist and political managers, but it tends to unfit

a man for frank and honest public discus-The aim of every lover of our country and the aim of every lover of our country and its liberties should therefore be to render the public schools so manifestly superior, morally and intellectually, to a private school, as to draw all the children into JUSTICE FOR ALL. Dr. Savage argues as follows: "In the case of those who believe that the salvation of their children's souls is at stake, there can not be a more odious tyranny than to compel them to submit to a teaching that, to their minds, entails such horrible conse-And in the case of those who not believe that endless welfare of their children is at stake, compelling them to submit to the teaching of a religion they don't believe in, is a waste of time, and subjects them to the influence of what and subjects them to the influence of what is regarded as hurtful superstitions, which hinder true learning, impart false theories of life and duty, and so interfere seriously with the happiness and progress of this world, if not of the next. In either case, then, it is a tyranny."

Dr. Savage concludes that the public school, "supported by the equal taration of people of all beliefs, exists and has a right to exist simply and solely for the sake of such education as fits for citizenship, and so is for the public good. The Church and the is for the public good. The Church and the home give ample scope for all individual peculiarities of belief or theory. The public school is for the people and for all the peo-ple. Let it be kept true to its own high and sacred mission."

THINKS IT INEXPEDIENT. Prof. W. T. Harris says: "It seems to me that religious instruction in the public the dogmatic tone creeps into the secular recitations and drives out a desirable critical alertness and investigating spirit and stiffes independent thinking."

Mr. Harris cites the "infidelity" in Germany as an argument against religion in the schools.

THE NEW IRISH LEAGUE.

in a State of Consternation. LONDON, July 11.-Some weeks ago Smith Barry, with the knowledge and approval of Balfour, formed a syndicate of Irish and English landlords, the avowed object of which was to compel tenants to pay rents. Since then the Irish leaders have had several anxious consultations as to the best means of protecting tenants against this new and formidable danger. This morning Mr. Parnell announces that he and morning Mr. Parnell announces that he and his colleagues have, with the fullest sense of their responsibility, resolved to establish a Tenants' Defense League, and William O'Brien made a similar announcement last evening at a big meeting in Tipperary, amid a scene of tremendous enthusiasm.

The new league will be openly inaugurated by a public conference which will be attended by every member of the Irish party and representative men from all parts of Ireland. The league will be modeled as closely as possible on lines of British trades unions. It will be in every respect as legal as those formidable organizations, and it will be difficult for the Government to suppress it without unblushingly throwthis question : "Is Religious Instruction in and it will be diment for the Government to suppress it without unblushingly throwing to the winds every shree of constitutionalism in Ireland. The movement is the most important inaugurated since the establishment of the Land League in 1879. It has already created a vertiable panic in the leading or one and their organ the It has already created a veritable panic in the landlord camp, and their organ, the Dublin Express, weeps copiously this morning, predicting all manner of dreadful things, including the extermination of the Irish people and the handing over of the country to military colonists from England. The landlords are gasping at the possibility of a general strike against rent, and the Tories predict turmoit and bloodshed during the coming winter, but the new league will be strong enough to prevent crime and will afford Balfour no reasonable excuse for proclaiming martial law in order to fight it. Ft. Wayne Road.

SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCE. BEAVER FALLS, PA., July 11 .- For som time past it has been noticed that the track of the Ft. Wayne Railroad, at a "barge fill," at Wallace run, a few miles north of here, has been sinking. More ballast was put un-der the rails, but the track still continued to sink. This morning the cause of the sinking was made plain, however, when the entire north side of the enbankment caved in and a great volume of smoke and flames rushed out.

It was then discovered that by some means the old ties and slack, which had been used in making the "fill," had caught fire, and for months, probably, has been burning, until at last it reached the surface, and then the whole affair gave way. As the embankment is a very huge affair, it will take a long while to repair it. All trains will run over the New Castle and New Brighton branch until the repairs are completed.

The Soldiers' Orphan School at That Pin-Will be Continued.

Uniontown, July 11 .- The committee investigating the Soldiers Orphans' schools were well pleased with the situation at the Unionville school, and commended the excellent state of repair and preservation of the buildings, and were particularly delighted with the bathing tacilities. They had nothing but words of commendation for the management, and Senator Gobin told Superintendent Waters, when leaving to procure return tickets for his pupils when he dismisses them this summer, and also to get ready to receive 120 pupils from the Mercer school when he reopens in September, and as many more as he can take.

It has been finally decided to discontinue the Mercer school and its 218 nursis will Prof. W. 2. Harris says: "It seems to me that religious instruction in the public schools is inexpedient on the ground that they are for all citizens, whatever their religious belief or no belief. It is the conviction of the average American citizen that rights of private conscience must be rerights of private conscience must be respected, and that Church and State must be entirely separate.
